IF YOU HAPPEN TO HAVE A DINOSAUR

Linda Bailey & Colin Jack

ACTIVITY GUIDE
ABOUT THE BOOK

If you happen to have a dinosaur lying around your living room, and you don’t know what to do with it… why don’t you use it as a can opener? It will make a terrific nutcracker, too! There are oodles of uses for a dinosaur—from a fine umbrella to an excellent kite and a dandy pillow, not to mention a reliable burglar alarm and the perfect excuse to forget your homework. This delightfully absurd exploration of the domestic uses of dinosaurs—and the things dinos just aren’t good for at all—is guaranteed to tickle funny bones and spark imaginations. If you read carefully, you’ll learn how to make your dinosaur last a very long time.

ACTIVITIES

BEFORE READING

What if there was a dinosaur, just lying around in our classroom, doing nothing. Can you think of some ways it could help us? Can you think of some ways it wouldn’t be helpful?

THE GOOD AND THE BAD

After reading the book aloud, make a list as a class of everything that would be helpful and not-so-helpful about having a dinosaur as outlined in the story. Write the list on a t-chart. Work together to add five items to each side of the chart. What might other family members, neighbors and people in the community think?

ALL SEASON DINOSAUR

The author writes “... a dinosaur is handy any season of the year.” Discuss how a dinosaur might be helpful in each of the four seasons. Students can draw or paint a picture of a dinosaur participating in a favorite activity in that season.

MAYBE YOU COULD...

In a Mix-Pair-Share activity, ask students to circulate around the classroom and talk to partners about what they could do if they found a porcupine, a penguin, a saber-tooth, a sasquatch, a dodo or a camel lying around their living room.

WHAT COULD YOU DO WITH A KANGAROO?

Revisit the last page of the story. In small groups or as a whole class, brainstorm ideas about what it would be like to have a kangaroo lying around your living room. In partners or small groups, create various tableaux depicting these ideas. Create a class book, one page per student or pair of students.
